Investment update - April

Global markets seemingly continued to regain their composure during April, offering further encouragement to investors as US stockmarkets reached record highs, whilst closer to home, UK markets hit their highest level so far this year. Markets were supported by an increased oil price, a slightly stronger US dollar and better than expected company results during the US earnings season. Although markets have continued to rally, heightened policy uncertainty, persistent trade tensions, concerns over China's economy, ongoing declines in business confidence and Brexit remain uncertainties that should not be ignored. No changes were made to the Balanced strategy in April, with the strategy's current sector headline positioning balancing both the shorter-term market uncertainty and potential longer-term opportunity. However, our Investment Committee has identified a potential change to the underlying funds within our alternatives sector. These changes will likely be made following the conclusion of Japan's Golden Week early next month.

You can choose an income option in all our risk strategies, which means that you could benefit from regular income from your investments as well as potential long-term capital growth.
