Investment update - November

World equity markets had one of the best months on record since 1989 in November, rallying on the back of the news of effective vaccines against COVID-19 and the possibility of vaccine roll outs in the near future. This, much needed, positive news was preceded by Joe Biden's US presidential election, which was also viewed favourably by markets. The 'Goldilocks' outcome of a potentially divided Senate / House of Representatives and avoidance of a 'Blue Wave' was viewed as the best outcome from a market perspective, in part because it seemingly makes significant tax increases and reforms of 'big tech' and sectors such as healthcare less likely. No changes were made to the strategy in November. The total allocation to global stockmarkets across our strategies remain at broadly neutral levels, with around 80% of equity exposure lying outside of the UK where we believe greater longer-term opportunities exist. Our Investment Committee continue to closely monitor current events and are actively looking at economic areas and themes that will now be best placed to capitalise from the recent global policy shifts in Europe (European Green Deal), China (carbon neutral by 2060) and the US (Biden's presidential election victory – renewables and infrastructure).
