Investment update - January

January saw continued optimism for risk assets following the global roll-out of COVID-19 vaccinations coupled with the promise of further stimulus. This was despite near-term headwinds, such as renewed winter lockdowns and new variants of the disease, which were overlooked by investors. However, January's early market gains were lost towards the month end following a coordinated effort by a group of retail investors to increase the share price of heavily shorted stocks, typically held by hedge funds. This "short squeeze" caused a spike in volatility across a range of markets. Although we have exposure to long/short funds in our alternatives exposure, the effects of the short squeeze have been largely immaterial given that our fund managers tend to avoid controversial or crowded shorts and our funds are market-neutral in nature. These actions may have increased short-term volatility but economic recoveries in 2021 are still likely to be some of the largest on record and as such, no changes have been made to the strategy in January. The more resilient economies of Asia and the US look set to come through the crisis in better shape than the UK and continental Europe and as such we have maintained our overweight positioning to these regions. Recent allocations made to sustainable energy and infrastructure funds in the thematic/global sector last month have proved beneficial for performance and this sector should benefit from structural long-term growth and policy support from all key regions of the world.
