Investment update - September

World equity markets declined around 4% in September although US dollar strength, and some weakness in sterling, did serve to alleviate some of these losses for sterling-based investors. The change in sentiment was driven primarily by lowering growth forecasts and concerns over the potential impact of supply disruptions and rising inflationary pressures. Comments from the world's major central banks were hawkish, with interest rate rises potentially occurring earlier than expected whilst accommodative policy stances remain likely to be withdrawn as planned in the future. The recent trends of weaker activity, combined with higher inflation (which is seemingly stickier than originally forecast), and still elevated unemployment levels, are further complicating the picture for central banks. Markets so far, however, continue to be reassured by their measured reactions and ability to perform a more complicated juggling act. Indeed, it seems likely that central banks' policies will, in the short term, remain accommodative. This backdrop should continue to be supportive for risk assets for the remainder of 2021 and into 2022. As such, no changes were made to the strategy during the month, with equity exposure maintained at the top end of the allowable equity range. Any setbacks are expected to be short-lived as investor cash continues to accumulate and needs a better home to combat the vagaries of inflation.
