Investment update - November

November proved to be an excellent month for investors with strong returns from both equities and fixed income. The key catalyst was weaker-than-expected inflation data reinforcing the view that interest rates may have peaked. US headline inflation for October came in slightly lower than expected, implying that the broad disinflationary trend remains on track. UK and eurozone headline inflation fell further than expected with notable falls in service sector inflationary pressures and fuel prices respectively. The overall level of economic resilience seen across the developed world is fuelling the market's hopes for a 'soft landing' – a scenario where inflation is successfully controlled without undue damage to economic growth. Our positive view on the outlook for equity markets remains and as such, the strategy remains at the top end of its allowable equity range. As previously reported, we have actively shifted our equity allocation in recent months, adding to Europe and Japan and to a thematic fund focusing on companies set to benefit from developments in artificial intelligence. Our positioning has worked well, with the US market leading the way over the month, whilst returns from the eurozone and Japan were strong. Monetary policy remains high, while yields on investment grade corporate bonds continue to look particularly appealing. We have been incrementally adding exposure to fixed income in recent months, slightly reducing more defensive assets. These market-neutral vehicles continue to deliver attractive, risk-adjusted returns and reduce volatility in periods of market weakness.

Headline positioning

- The strategies remain at the top end of their allowable equity range as we remain broadly optimistic about the economic outlook for the second half of 2024.
- We have trimmed our commitment to the US market and some thematic funds in favour of exposure to Europe and an increased allocation to Japan (excluding Defensive) where opportunities have arisen.
- We continue to allocate to inflation-linked bond funds, actively managed strategic bond funds and 'market neutral' alternative investments, which continue to act as good portfolio stabilisers, diversifiers of risk and sources of return.
- Cash exposure remains low and there continues to be focus on high levels of liquidity in everything that we own.
