Investment objective

To build capital in real (inflation-adjusted) terms over the medium to longer term. Investors should expect a high correlation to stockmarket behaviour and rewards, and be entirely comfortable with substantial volatility and very limited protection in times of market weakness.

Risk profile

The strategy is managed in accordance with Dynamic Planner risk profile 7, with the strategy's expected volatility targeted to stay within the assigned Dynamic Planner risk profile's boundaries.

About the Hybrid Passive Risk Targeted Managed Service

Our Hybrid Passive Risk Targeted ('RT') Managed Service consists of five actively managed investment strategies (Hybrid Passive RT 3-7) that provide lower cost access to our discretionary fund management capabilities through the combination of active and passive collective investments. Each strategy has a different level of risk and expected return, and are rigorously mapped within the volatility boundaries assigned to specific Dynamic Planner risk profiles (RTM 3-7). The service provides a solution that, when cost considerations are paramount, does not compromise on quality.

Investment update

Monetary and political events took turns to swing markets over January as uncertainty over both inflation and the policy mix of Trump 2.0 were absorbed by global investors. The inflation report arrived mid-month as market watchers had dramatically pared back their expectations for interest rate cuts from the US Federal Reserve ('Fed') over 2025 amidst stronger-than-expected employment numbers. The market is expecting the Fed to take an extended breather and are currently not pricing in a rate cut until June at the earliest. Ongoing developments in Washington remain a key factor, with the extent of further cuts depending greatly on policy changes deployed by the new administration. On this front, President Trump's latest salvo has been to declare sweeping tariffs on Canada and Mexico, as well as on China. Prior to the tariff news, the headlines had been dominated by DeepSeek's emergence as a lower cost, high-performance competitor to its Western counterparts. The news emanating from China caused immediate yet localised panic within companies perceived to be at the forefront of the AI revolution. Elsewhere, in the eurozone; lacklustre growth, softening labour markets and falling energy costs should combine to bring down an inflation figure that has proven somewhat stickier than anticipated. A continued backdrop of generally resilient global economic growth, moderating global inflation and reductions in interest rates should continue to be supportive for a wide range of asset classes. We expect broadly positive corporate earnings growth announcements driven by an improvement in profit margins and a more conducive environment for capital projects as the cost of capital falls. As such, the strategy remains at the upper end of its Dynamic Planner risk profile. In January, we altered the underlying country exposure in the Asia-Pacific ex-Japan equity sector via the addition of the abrdn Asia Pacific ex-Japan Tracker fund, at the expense of the other tracker funds in the sector. We remain positive on the outlook for fixed income assets, where history suggests that attractive returns typically follow as we progress through the loosening cycle. We are retaining some exposure to low volatility absolute return funds, which continue to act as effective portfolio diversifiers and play a valuable role in portfolios during periods of market weakness.
