Investment objective

To build capital in real (inflation-adjusted) terms over the medium to longer term. Investors should expect reasonable correlation to stockmarket behaviour and rewards, including quite sharp fluctuations in values, but also some protection in times of market weakness.

Risk profile

The strategy is managed in accordance with Dynamic Planner risk profile 5, with the strategy's expected volatility targeted to stay within the assigned Dynamic Planner risk profile's boundaries.

About the Hybrid Passive Risk Targeted Managed Service

Our Hybrid Passive Risk Targeted ('RT') Managed Service consists of five actively managed investment strategies (Hybrid Passive RT 3-7) that provide lower cost access to our discretionary fund management capabilities through the combination of active and passive collective investments. Each strategy has a different level of risk and expected return, and are rigorously mapped within the volatility boundaries assigned to specific Dynamic Planner risk profiles (RTM 3-7). The service provides a solution that, when cost considerations are paramount, does not compromise on quality.

Investment update

May was a strong month for equity markets with the MSCI World Index rising 5% in sterling terms. The key positive driver was some easing in trade policy tensions between the US and China. Cooler-than-expected inflation data in the US was also supportive to market sentiment. The US market led the way in terms of performance with the technology, industrials and consumer discretionary sectors particularly strong. Small-cap stocks also outperformed as sentiment on the economy improved and also on the expectation of supportive tax and regulatory initiatives announced in the US House of Representatives' reconciliation bill. Corporate earnings announcements remain generally encouraging across developed markets. All major equity markets performed well over the month, albeit the UK market lagged somewhat largely due to its inherent 'value' bias and the relative underperformance of sectors such as healthcare and resources. While sentiment improved markedly in May there is still much uncertainty, with President Trump threatening a 50% tariff on the EU. UK/EU discussions on the current trading framework took place with initial estimates of what might be agreed suggesting a muted economic benefit to the UK. It was a volatile month for fixed income markets. Despite the softer inflation data, sovereign bond yields rose mid-month on fiscal concerns, notably in the US where treasuries were downgraded by Moody's. Bond markets recovered toward the end of the month as a result of easing trade tensions and lessening inflation concerns, and most areas of high yield and investment grade credit posted positive returns. No changes have been made over the month and the strategy remains at the upper end of its corresponding Dynamic Planner risk profile. Our decision to maintain equity exposure during the recent period of volatility has meant that we have captured the market rebound, notably in the US market. Several of our active managers have also significantly outperformed over the month, helped by the strength in mid and small caps. Within the defensive element of our portfolios, we have seen continued impressive risk-adjusted performance from our alternatives funds, which outperformed key bond indices and continue to provide positive returns and downside protection in periods of market volatility.
