Investment objective

To preserve capital in real (inflation-adjusted) terms over the medium to longer term. Investors should expect low levels of reward and a low correlation to stockmarket behaviour, including modest fluctuations in values.

Risk profile

The strategy is managed in accordance with Dynamic Planner risk profile 3 and is part of their Risk Targeted Managed ('RTM') offering. The strategy's expected volatility is targeted to stay within the assigned Dynamic Planner risk profile's boundaries.

About the Risk Targeted Managed Portfolio Service

Our Risk Targeted ('RT') Managed Portfolio Service consists of five actively managed investment growth strategies (Risk Targeted 3-7). Each strategy has a different level of risk and expected return, and are rigorously mapped within the volatility boundaries assigned to specific Dynamic Planner risk profiles (RTM 3-7).

Investment update

January was a generally good month for equities with all major indices up in local currency terms. Some weakness in the US dollar versus sterling did, however, offset gains in the US market, resulting in the MSCI World Index return being broadly flat in sterling terms. The Global Aggregate Bond Index fell 1.1%. The broadly positive macroeconomic backdrop for equity markets remains in place as we move into 2026. Key economic indicators continue to improve while inflationary pressures remain relatively comfortable for central banks. Corporate newsflow also remains positive overall. The current US earnings season is on track to deliver the fifth straight quarter of double-digit earnings growth. What is notable is the broadening out of market leadership in recent weeks with technology being the weakest US sector in January while sectors such as energy, materials and consumer staples have been strong. Value stocks strongly outperformed growth stocks globally in January and smaller companies outperformed large companies. Asian markets performed particularly strongly, returning 7% over the month. Market volatility remains high, however, and geopolitical risks are swaying sentiment. The decision by the US administration to remove Venezuelan leader President Maduro and then reignite tariff threats surrounding potential actions around Greenland led to some unwelcome uncertainty in markets. The generally positive economic news, and corresponding easing in interest rate cut expectations, weighed on sovereign bonds however index-linked and corporate debt proved more resilient. Overall, we still see current conditions as favourable for a range of asset classes. We remain comfortable with the strategy remaining at the upper end of its corresponding Dynamic Planner risk profile, with regional equity positioning continuing to favour the US and Asia over the UK and Europe. The outlook for corporate earnings growth remains positive and continued investment in productivity-enhancing technologies such as AI should underpin longer-term growth. In fixed income markets our positioning is expressed via shorter-maturity exposure to corporate bonds and longer-duration positioning in government bonds, which should benefit from further interest rate reductions.
