Investment objective

To build capital in real (inflation-adjusted) terms over the medium to longer term. Investors should expect a high correlation to stockmarket behaviour and rewards, including significant fluctuations in value, with only moderate protection in times of market weakness.

Risk profile

The strategy is managed in accordance with Dynamic Planner risk profile 6 and is part of their Risk Target Managed ('RTM') offering. The strategy's expected volatility is targeted to stay within the assigned Dynamic Planner risk profile's boundaries.

About the Risk Targeted Managed Portfolio Service

Our Risk Targeted ('RT') Managed Portfolio Service consists of five actively managed investment growth strategies (Risk Targeted 3-7). Each strategy has a different level of risk and expected return, and are rigorously mapped within the volatility boundaries assigned to specific Dynamic Planner risk profiles (RTM 3-7).

Investment update

After an excellent start to the year, equity markets sold off heavily in March. The catalyst for the dramatic reversal in sentiment was the conflict in the Middle East, where disruption to key shipping routes and damage to energy infrastructure sent oil and gas prices sharply higher. The MSCI World Index fell 4.5% in sterling terms however some markets, such as Asia and Japan, fell in excess of 10%. Continental European markets also fell by close to 9% while the UK market also sold off sharply. The US market was more resilient over the month, albeit it still fell 3.1% in sterling terms. This reflected the fact that the US is a net exporter of energy and therefore less vulnerable to energy supply-driven shocks. The heightened concerns over inflation and the reversal of interest rate expectations also weighed heavily on bond markets. Despite the inflationary concerns stemming from the Middle East conflict, the Bank of England and European Central Bank kept interest rates on hold although acknowledged the potential for a difficult scenario of rising inflation and falling economic growth. The rhetoric stemming from the US was more relaxed, as a combination of weaker labour data and more muted inflation concerns are currently keeping expectations for one further rate cut this year intact. Given the continuing uncertainty regarding the Middle East conflict, and the potential impact on energy prices, changes are afoot to reduce inflation/interest rate risk by selling our longer-dated gilt exposure. We will not be reducing equity exposure overall for fear of being whipsawed by volatile markets and the strategy remains towards the upper end of its corresponding Dynamic Planner risk profile. However, in acknowledgement of heightened geopolitical risks, we plan to slightly reduce risk by cutting exposure to Asian equities as we believe this region is the most vulnerable to a prolonged disruption in energy markets. These proceeds will primarily be reallocated to infrastructure assets which, in our opinion, offer more defensive characteristics, inflation-protected revenue streams and a high visibility of earnings.
